

CERP Website

In 2011 the former CERP website www.cept-cerp.org has been terminated and a new website has been created under the umbrella of the CEPT website www.cept.org/cerp.

This new website offers a large range of opportunities for the distribution of information and is really easy to handle. As soon as you have concluded the registration process (see annex 1 to this document) you may notify yourself to any group you wish. In addition you may indicate groups as your favorite, which means that you automatically will receive an Email-alert when a new document is available.

Until today documents of the CERP Working Groups Policy and UPU have been distributed among its members by Email by the working group chairs. From 1 June 2012 onwards this service will be terminated, so that any CERP member wishing to receive these working group documents has to register to the related working group on the CERP website.

Despite this, the working group chairs will continue to inform its members (those who have indicated their interest) on forthcoming working group meetings by a special Email.
