We usually suggest the subway metro and suburban railway, since it is reliable and only a 10' minute walk from EETT but you have to change from subway to railway. Also please read carefully the instructions for the walking route from Kifissias Station to EETT since it may be a little bit confusing.

The bus, depending on the traffic, it might take some time to get to your destination.

The airport is only a 20-25' drive from EETT, using a taxi. You should not worry about the traffic on that specific route, since you are using the highway.

From the center of Athens, a taxi is not always the fastest way, since depending on the time of the day there might be some heavy traffic. In any case for a ride from the center of Athens to EETT, you should not pay more than 20 €, unless the traffic is unbearable. If you want a receipt, better ask before getting into the taxi on whether they can give you one.
